

Job Title:	Engineering Assistant (8 month Co-Op)
Reports To:	Sr. Engineer and/or Director, Engineering
Location:	13562 Maycrest Way, Suite 5138, Richmond, BC
Date:	2021 Oct 06

Purpose/Role
Responsible for ensuring the safety and efficacy of Neovasc medical device products by providing assistance in engineering, manufacturing, clinical, and operational projects while adhering to the necessary quality and regulatory requirements.

Position Description
The Engineering Assistant will: <ul style="list-style-type: none">• Assist in conducting device testing to verify product requirements and engineering specifications; writing reports to conclude the findings and provide recommendations based on analysis.• Assist in processing quality events to maintain product performance and to satisfy regulatory guidance.• Assist in providing technical support for the clinical and operation departments.• Assist in improving manufacturing process and identifying areas for improvement.• Work collaboratively and effectively communicate cross-functionally, and externally, to improve product quality.

Qualifications
Education <ul style="list-style-type: none">• Enrolled in a post-secondary institution• Major in Mechanical / Biomedical engineering is preferred• A background / interest in Biology and Anatomy is preferred Experience <ul style="list-style-type: none">• Knowledge in ISO standards, Health and Safety regulations, and/or prior experiences in engineering projects is preferred Skills <ul style="list-style-type: none">• Attention to details• Strong organizational skills and an ability to prioritize tasks• Ability to effectively communicate concepts, ideas, and knowledge to team members• Ability to work independently with minimal supervision• Acts on initiative and good judgement to overcome issues

Qualified and interested candidates are invited to submit their resume to careers@neovasc.com